

Thursday · July 28 · Session 1 (Evening) · Historical Perspectives

By the turn of the last century, medical science heartily embraced electrotherapy -- much of it based on the Tesla coil. This special look at the history of Tesla Coils includes footage of the oldest known surviving Tesla Coil from 1900. There will also be reproductions of several of Tesla's original coils that he used in his famous lectures. These coils will be completely unknown to 90% of the audience - even avid Tesla enthusiasts.

Every electrotherapeutic method will be discussed with accompanying films. This includes rare concepts and ideas where machines no longer exist. I will personally be in the videos acting in some instances as one plate of a 50,000V Auto-Conduction Couch Capacitor; receiving 500,000V from an Oudin Resonator; I'll be a polyphase electric bath, where each arm and leg is in a pail of water charged to a different voltage connected to a large switchboard; I will light tubing, bulbs, and even X-Ray tubes through energy passed through my own body.

In addition, footage will be shown of rare lighting effects Tesla outlined in his lectures, as well as rare Tesla Coils producing unusual phenomenon, St Elmo's Fire, 6000° Flaming White Arcs, Pancake Coils and a variety of bizarre experiments not widely published.

Discretion Advised! Footage of surgical techniques using Tesla Coils, includes very graphic images of how the currents effect tissues. (ie. tissues coagulating, cooking, burning, smoking, all degrees of Diathermy).
